WASHINGTON, June 29.—(UP)—Labor leaders tonight roared defiance of the united front set up by steel interests to maintain an open shop and pushed forward furiously in a "bloodless" drive to unionize the 500,000 workers in the $5,000,000,000 industry.

A hundred shrewd, hand-picked organizers already are swarming through the twisted streets of the little steel towns. More will be sent into battle later, the United Press was advised. They will be paid from the $500,000 fund set aside by the committee for industrial organization, an offshoot of the American Federation of Labor, which is seeking to bring the steel workers into one big union.

Fewer than 24 hours after the large steel manufacturers, speaking through the American Iron and Steel Institute, announced their "united front" plan—with a warning that the unionization drive would threaten interruption of business and reduce the welfare of the country, labor struck back vigorously.

"If the moguls of steel are interested in preventing strikes, why are they now resorting to intimidation, coercion and discrimination against their employees?" fired Philip Murray, chairman of the American Iron and Steel Institute, in a statement issued in Pittsburgh.

He emphasized that the unionists "have no interest in fomenting strikes or creating disorders" and would conduct a "bloodless drive" toward success. Murray lashed out at the "royalists of steel" and charged they were seeking to use a "Frankenstein"

Mrs. Ernest Ramspeck Succumbs at Austell

Mrs. Ernest W. Ramspeck, wife of E. W. Ramspeck, an official of the Securities and Exchange Commission at Washington, D. C., and a sister-in-law of Congressman Robert Ramspeck, died yesterday at the residence of her mother, Mrs. B. H. Veal, at Austell, after an extended illness.

Mrs. Ramspeck was removed to her mother's home when her condition became serious in May.

She was the daughter of the late Captain R. H. Veal, cashier of the Austell bank. She and Mr. Ramspeck had been married for 16 years, and had resided in Washington for the last three years.

In addition to her husband and her mother, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Hattie V. Wilson, of Washington, and Mrs. Thomas D. Strickland, of Atlanta; a brother, Toulmin Veal, Austell, and a nephew, Thomas T. Strickland Jr.

Funeral services will be in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Zioncheck Leaves Capital For Washington State Home

"Congressman-at-Large" Had Defied Police To Arrest Him in His Offices in the House of Representatives.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—A midnight express train sped Marion A. Zioncheck safely out of the national capital this morning, carrying its liveliest congressman in many a year toward his home in Seattle, Wash.

Through the maneuvering of his friends, the "Puguet Sound Playboy" who spent most of yesterday barricaded in his office after fleeing a Maryland private sanitarium, was able to leave Washington unmolested by police or sanitarian officials.

As he stood in a blaze of photographers' lights just before the train left at 12:05 a. m. (Atlanta time) Zioncheck barked in answer to one reporter's question, "I'll be back in Washington all right."

He looked warm. Earlier in the evening, Zioncheck issued a statement declaring he had been "shanghaied" to Gallinger hospital here on a lunacy warrant.

A caravan of newspapermen and photographers took taxis and followed

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt ended his two days' stay here late tonight and left by a special train for Washington, where he is due to arrive early tomorrow.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., June 29.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today canvassed the political situation in the battle-ground states of Illinois and Michigan and was informed his chances for carrying both were good despite recent intraparty discord.

Frank Murphy, former Detroit mayor and present high commissioner to the Philippines, and Governor Henry Horner, of Illinois, came here at the invitation of the President and talked politics with him at a lengthy luncheon conference.

Both said they had informed the chief executive the democrats in their states would be "united" for him in November.

Murphy indicated strongly he would be a candidate for governor of Michigan against the incumbent republican, Frank Fitzgerald, who is expected to be nominated, but said he would not

Nanking Planes Rain Bombs on Cantonese

HONG KONG, June 29.—(AP)—Airmen of the Chinese central government showered bombs upon Kwangsi provincial troops today said reports from Nanking.

Trenches held by Kwangtung province troops also were bombed in another action the dispatches added.

Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces make up the southwest Canton regime, which has been threatening civil war upon the central government at Nanking.

Striking at supporters of the central government, the southwest regime arrested ten persons at Canton, charging them with belonging to the Nanking "fascist" movement.

AUTO DEATHS RISE 7 PCT. OVER YEAR, WITH 2,970 KILLED

Reversing 3 Months of Declining Fatalities, May
Tops Last Year's Total,
Threatens All-Time Mark

CHICAGO, June 29.—(AP)—An "alarming" increase in highway deaths during May was reported today by the National Safety Council.

After three months of steady decline, motorist fatalities increased last month 7 per cent above the mark of May, 1935.

Two thousand nine hundred and seventy deaths were reported on the nation's streets and roads during the month. The previous May deaths totaled 2,780.

The sudden change carried the average reduction in accident deaths for the first five months of the year down to 3 per cent, less than half the campaign goal of 7 per cent.

"Positive action" to reverse this unexpected trend during the remainder of the summer was promised within the next few days by W. H. Cameron, managing director of the council.

Unless the tide is turned, he said, continuance of the May rate would push the 1936 month total to 38,200, an all time high. The record was set with 37,000 in 1935.

"A relaxing of the alertness of pedestrians and motorists when they are abroad on the streets and highways" was the only reason Cameron could think of for the May setback.

Certainly municipal and state governments have been more exacting and intelligent in the prosecution of traffic safety programs than ever before in the history of the country," he said.

LONDON, June 29.—(AP)—Sarcasitic labor leaders loosed waves of criticism upon Britain's cabinet in house of commons today, tonight, one laborite going so far as to picture the absent prime minister as "Little Boy Blue."

The debate was called to discuss declarations made by cabinet ministers outside parliament which Clement R. Attlee, labor leader, said conflicted with Britain's declared policies.

"It's time the prime minister came to this house and told us plainly what the government policy is," he said. "Thereafter, members of the government should control their tongues."

Attlee was referring to a speech made in Paris June 28 by Alfred Duff Cooper, secretary, in which he said to his French audience, "your frontier is our frontier."

John McCarl, Only Man To Say No To 4 Presidents, Quits Post Today

By C. L. SULZBERGER.

McCarl is a republican. But, with the same impartiality with which he passed over proposed expenditures of the G. O. P. when it was in power, the sandy-haired Nebraska stockman said his resignation as postmaster general was a personal decision.

COMMUNISTS CALL FOR DISSOLUTION OF ROCQUE'S BLOC

Charge New Party Is

Attempt To Seize Government; Fight Seen.

PARIS, June 29.—(AP)—Communists called today for speedy dissolution of Colonel Francois de la Roque's new rightist party, formed for "conquest and power" in uneasy France.

Manifestations of political unrest continued, and strikers held their positions on scattered fronts.

Police dispersed another nationalist demonstration at the rekindling of the flame at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, beneath the Arc de Triomphe.

Members of de la Roque's Croix de Feu, ordered dissolved by the government, fought with members of the reigning party's front in the streets in Toulouse. Several were hurt and a number arrested.

Verbal hostilities between rightists and leftists were due for a chamber of deputies airing tomorrow in debate on the government decree dissolving the Croix de Feu and other so-called fascist leagues.

Chamber looters foresaw no immediate major political repercussions from de la Roque's new "social party."

Moderate deputies predicted the struggle between the two extremes would last for months.

Announcement of de la Roque's plans was countered by organization of a "popular French party" by Jacques Doriot, former communist deputy.

Communists also seized on de la Roque's declaration he was prepared to take power "illegally" if necessary as meaning he was "preparing for an

HAILE SELASSIE, MEANWHILE, AWAITS HOUR FOR HIS APPEAL BEFORE LEAGUE.

GENEVA, June 29.—(AP)—Italy, seeking to calm fears of Great Britain and France, promised the League of Nations tonight she would not create a huge Ethiopian army.

This pledge was contained in a note delivered on the eve of a session of the League assembly before which Emperor Haile Selassie will make a personal plea for "justice."

The Italian note blamed Ethiopians for the war and sketched plans for the development of the country, promising to keep the League in touch. It announced Italy's intention to "collaborate in every way" with the Geneva body.

The Selassie wrote officials: "It is our intention personally to take part in one or several meetings of the assembly at the head of the Ethiopian delegation."

The Selassie, stripped of his empire by Italy, remained in seclusion in his hotel today working on his appeal, to be delivered in French.

Creation of an "international college of elder statesmen" to help the League keep world peace was suggested.

3-Year Heat Record Smashed As Atlanta Mercury Hits 99

Needle Climbs to 101 Degrees at Candler Field as Hottest Day Since June 19, 1933, Is Recorded; Hunt Shade Today, Advises Weatherman.

Heat records for three years were blasted yesterday when the needle of Atlanta's official downtown weather bureau thermometer quivered and stopped at 99 degrees at 4 p. m.

It was the first time that 99 degrees has been officially recorded in Atlanta since June 18, 1933.

At the same hour, the needle in the weather bureau instrument at the auxiliary Candler airport bureau recorded 101 degrees. This figure is admitted to be more nearly comparable to actual temperatures in the sun-baked streets of downtown Atlanta.

Throughout the south a blistering sun set new heat records yesterday, with Augusta, Ga., where 105 was recorded, getting top honors.

Other hot spots were Athens, 101.2; Macon, 101; Columbus, 101; Valdosta, 100; Birmingham, Ala., 100.

Augusta's maximum broke all June records there, and Brunswick, on the Georgia coast, had its hottest day of the year, with 97.

DELEGATES STRIKE MAZE OF RUMORS

State Politics in Veritable
Up-ur as Forces Shift for Final Alignments.

The Georgia delegation to the democratic national convention returned to its home state yesterday to find politics in a veritable up-ur of rumors but with no action being taken by any participants or prospective participants in the two forthcoming major campaigns, that for the senate and that for the governorship.

Actual developments during the day included the formal entry of DeLoach Allen, of Albany, American Legion leader, into the race for lieutenant governor, the qualification of Dave M. Parker, of Waycross, for the court of appeals, and the announcement of his candidacy for attorney general by Senator W. M. Lester, of Augusta.

Although the entries will close at 11 o'clock on July 4, as far as the Georgia delegation is concerned, the office he will seek. Some say he is leaning toward a third race for governor, while others are equally insistent that he will oppose Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., who is an announced candidate for re-election.

Two of the three announced candidates for governor were members of the delegation to Philadelphia, Speaker E. D. Rivers, of the house of representatives, and Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens. Speaker Rivers came to Atlanta to attend a breakfast given in honor of the delegation by United States Attorney Lawrence Camp and then went to visit friends on Lookout mountain, where he will write his opening campaign speech to be delivered Saturday at Gainesville.

Judge Fortson stopped at his home at Athens to prepare for his campaign. He is expected to pay his entry fee and become a qualified candidate for governor in a day or two.

Marion H. Allen, of Milledgeville, chairman of the Georgia delegation to the national convention, still is being talked as a prospective candidate for governor. He was one of the featured speakers at the Camp breakfast yesterday and in his talk he stated that it was the plan of the Roosevelt camp to keep their organization intact throughout the summer in the event that the republican party should make an attempt to carry Georgia. Allen declared that he expected an overwhelming Roosevelt majority in the state in November.

Talmadge remained at his offices during the day and the speculation concerning his future continued as did the speculation concerning Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic committee, and Senator President Charles D. Redwine, both of whom are known to aspire to be the Talmadge candidate for governor in the event that Talmadge runs for the senate.

Reports indicated that strong pressure is being put on the governor to ask a third term, the pressure com-

Heat and drouth scorched wide areas of the middle west and south-east Monday as Secretary Wallace prepared to make personal survey of the sun-parched north-central states.

The downtown station of the Atlanta weather bureau recorded the highest temperature in three years—99—late yesterday. At the airport weather bureau station, outside of town, the mercury climbed to 101.

The temperatures have gone higher than the 99 recorded in the downtown station several times, but today's figure surpassed any recorded since 1933 for the heart of the city.

Nashville, Tenn., had a reading of 98. Augusta, Ga., reported 105 degrees to break June heat records. It was 104 at Macon.

After conferring with the administrative special drouth committee, Wallace said he would leave tomorrow to look over the situation, indicating he would visit particularly the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming.

Estimates of drouth sufferers in the northern areas run as high as 80,000. Temperatures ranged from the high nineties in Nebraska and Iowa, with 108 recorded at Dresden and Phillipsburg, Kan., and 105 in southern Illinois.

Louisiana reported heavy damage to crops from the dry weather and blistering winds added to discomfort in the state. Tennessee's drouth loss estimate was $50,000,000. Southwest states figure the drouth has cost farmers above $150,000,000.

Black Legion Slayer Enters Plea of Guilty

DETROIT, June 29.—(AP)—Dayton Dean pleaded guilty today to the Black Legion murder which brought to light the existence of the black-clad terrorist society.

Appearing before Circuit Judge Joseph A. Moynihan, the Black Legion "executioner" said formally he had kidnapped and slain Charles A. Papp, young WPA worker, the night of May 12.

"Why are you pleading guilty?" the court asked.

"Because I am guilty," Dean said. Sentencing of Dean, who will be a witness at the trial of the others on charges of kidnapping and murder, was deferred. The maximum penalty possible under Michigan law is life imprisonment.

At the same time there were persistent reports that in the event Talmadge seeks the senate both Redwine and Howell will announce for governor, whether the latter has the Talmadge backing or not. The state chairman was reported at his DeKalb county farm yesterday and could not be reached for a statement but it is understood that he has not changed his mind since last week, when he said he was for Talmadge if Talmadge ran and would run himself if Talmadge does not.

It was said by some, may force Talmadge to run for governor to keep down a Redwine-Howell fight. In that event another candidate to oppose Senator Russell from the Talmadge camp doubtless would be dug up.

While these reports were going the rounds in Atlanta there came reports from Athens that Abit Nix, who only last week announced that he would not be a candidate for governor, is considering making the race for the senate, regardless of whether Talmadge runs or not. There was no confirmation of these reports available.

Senator Russell, who left Philadelphia with the Roosevelt delegation, dropped off the train in Washington to attend to several matters and is expected to reach his home at Winder tomorrow or the next day.

The formal filing of his candidacy by DeLacey Allen for lieutenant governor was expected but the Lester announcement from Augusta came as a surprise. It had been reported that Senator Lester also was considering making the race for lieutenant governor. He is known as a Talmadge supporter.

The senator, a member of the house prior to his election to the senate in 1932, held important committee assignments in the senate both at the 1933 and 1935 sessions. In 1932 he was chairman of the committee on constitutional amendments and a member of the rules committee; in 1935 he was chairman of the appropriations committee, and on the rules and other committees.

His announcement said he felt he could be of "special service to the people of this state as attorney general" and realized that the "duties of the office if elected, and would co-operate as well with solicitors general, sheriffs and other law enforcement officials."

Parker Entry Formality.

Judge Parker has been campaigning for the court of appeals post and his entry was a mere formality.

Among the entries during the day was that of Pemberton Cooley Sr., of Lawrenceville, who became a candidate for judge of the superior court to succeed Judge W. W. Stark, of Commerce, who is retiring. Solicitor General Clifford Pratt, of the circuit, is also a candidate for the judgeship.

Judge William Woodrum, of Millen, qualified to succeed himself as judge of the Ogeechee circuit of superior court.

Leroy Cowart, of Statesboro, qualified Saturday in opposition to Judge Woodrum.

Charles H. Garrett, solicitor general of the Macon circuit, qualified to succeed himself.

COL. T. S. MOORMAN DIES AT WASHINGTON

Army Officer Was Formerly
Regimental Commander at McPherson.

Colonel Thomas S. Moorman, U. S. A., former commander of the 22d Infantry at Fort McPherson and commander of Clemson College, South Carolina, died Sunday at Walter Reed Army hospital, Washington, D. C. He was 61.

Colonel Moorman was attached to Fort McPherson for four years, having come here from Omaha, Neb., and the family had a wide circle of friends in Atlanta. The colonel was a member of a prominent South Carolina family and was a native of Newberry.

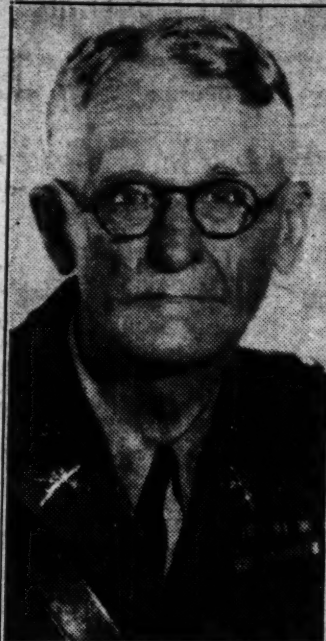

He had been in declining health for several years and had been seriously ill since January.

He was a graduate of Clemson College in 1896 and served through the Spanish-American War in the South Carolina infantry. At the close of hostilities he joined the regular army in 1901 and was promoted through the ranks, attaining his colonelcy.

He was a brother-in-law of Mrs. Robert L. DeLoach, of Atlanta. Other survivors include his wife, Mrs. Amanda A. Moorman; a daughter, Elizabeth Moorman; two sons, Robert and Lieutenant Thomas S. make a definite decision for four or five days.

He said he was going to Washington tomorrow for conferences with War and Navy Department officials about urgent Philippine matters and then would spend the week-end in Michigan.

He added he talked about far eastern affairs with the President in addition to politics.

"There are some matters in connection with the Philippines that require immediate attention," he told a group of reporters.

Murphy was one of four men in-dorsed for the nomination at a recent pre-primary convention. The others were George Welsh, former lieutenant governor; George Schraeder, speaker of the house, and Theodore Fry, state treasurer.

"I think the democratic chances are good in Michigan," he said. "I think a democratic governor will be elected and Roosevelt will carry the state. It will be a close contest, but there are better chances for Roosevelt winning than losing. All groups in the party will be supporting the President."

Horne said he discussed national economics and relief in the state as well as national and state politics.

"There will be perfect unanimity for Roosevelt in Illinois," he said. "There has never been anything controversial in the attitude of the state toward the President. I expect him to carry Illinois."

Horne was recently renominated to oppose C. Wayland Brooks, republican. The Illinois governor won over Herman N. Bunde, who had the support of the Chicago democratic organization of Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committee member Patrick A. Nash, in the primary.

The conference at the Roosevelt ancestral home lasted more than two hours. Political observers saw in it an effort on the part of the President to eliminate all possible factional differences in these two major electoral vote states.

Horne said he had been invited here by the President when the two met June 14 at Vincennes, Ind., where the chief executive dedicated the George Rogers Clark memorial.

"Do you think all rifts in the party have been healed in Illinois?" he was asked.

"I haven't talked with Kelly," he replied, "but I have no reason to believe he will support any but the democratic ticket."

He also predicted that the state democratic ticket would win.

He said he had urged the President to make a campaign speech in Illinois, but received no definite answer.

Asked about the chances of the Lemke party presidential ticket in Illinois Horne gave his personal views after emphasizing he had not talked about this with the President.

He said the North Dakotans prospects for cutting into democratic strength looked "ominous on paper," but otherwise he thought they were not so good.

"They certainly won't get the farm vote from Roosevelt in Illinois," he added, "because the western farmer has made farming a livelihood."

court as hinting a return to the "short and broad" but neither he nor any of his subordinates challenged McCarr's ruling on his interpretations of congressional mandates to the taxpayers' money should be spent.

He took the position that congress and congress alone was privileged in ordering the spending of federal cash. He resented privately the billion-dollar blank checks given the President to fight the depression but sought faithfully to interpret the congressional mind in the distribution of federal cash.

McCarr was proud of his office as chief of his job. He was an unknown republican politician when the office was created and when Warren G. Harding selected him to fill the exalted post. He was what government officials call "tough" from the beginning. His agents insisted that carbons be fully used and that half-consumed lead pencils not be discarded because they were "free."

Both sides of typewriter ribbons were used under McCarr's regime. He once denied the right of Secretary of Labor James Davis to travel a short distance in a Pullman car and paid the expenses of General John J. Pershing, commander of America's expeditionary forces in the World War.

High official and lowly clerk—they looked alike to McCarr as he ran a sharpened pencil point over their expense accounts.

No one could fire him, rebuke him or overrule him. He could be removed by impeachment only.

During the Coolidge administration it was decided to use money appropriated by congress for flood control for relief of flood sufferers.

"No," roared McCarr.

Coolidge heard of the decision.

"Do you mean to say," he inquired, "that the President of the United States cannot do anything concerning the expenditure of federal monies that McCarr says he can't do?"

The New Englander was considerably exasperated when he was told that this was the case.

Under the New Deal, NRA Administrator Hugh S. Johnson wanted to ban Ford trucks from government bidding because the Michigan motor car manufacturer had been exceptionally cool toward the Blue Eagle.

"No," shouted McCarr.

Johnson raged. He shouted. He yelled. He took his fight to the White House. In the end, however, McCarr's "No" stood.

His one insistence always was that he obey no one but congress and that if those whose will he controverted did not like it, they would have to force through a new law, verifying their position. Presidents and Pullman porters were the same on the books of John R. McCarr.

At present, there are no indications who will succeed him. The appointment is up to President Roosevelt. It will be an important political choice and if a subversive party man is chosen it is likely to cause considerable political furor during the current campaign. Until the selection is made, Richard N. Elliott, assistant comptroller general, will assume all duties.

passed through, then the door swung shut.

Earlier in the day the congressman had hurriedly hurried out of his luxurious capitol office suite, was freed today by capitol police after he agreed to return to his home in Seattle, Wash.

At the invitation of House Sergeant-at-Arms Kenneth Romney, Zionscheck agreed to end the bare-and-hounds chase with police which has marked most of his stay in the capitol this year.

Romney agreed to conduct him safely past metropolitan police officials who sought to serve a warrant charging the congressman and his wife, Mary, with assaulting their landlady.

Local police sought also to return Zionscheck to Gallinger hospital where he was confined for mental observation for several weeks before being sent to Sheppard-Pratt sanitarium in Towson, Md., from which he escaped last night by leaping over a seven-foot fence.

Romney announced Zionscheck is "a free agent" following settlement of assault charges against him and will leave for Seattle for some time, soon.

Romney made the announcement a few minutes after Zionscheck, dressed in a pleated black white linen suit, left his office at the capitol under a police guard and was whisked away.

Zionscheck's whereabouts remained in doubt after leaving his office. Romney said he had not seen the congressman for two hours but had been in touch with him by telephone.

Romney said he did not know that Zionscheck had left the office where he sought refuge this morning from the pursuit that followed his escape from a Maryland asylum yesterday.

Romney said he had posted $25 collateral which would guarantee Zionscheck's appearance in the future and would free him from the time being at least from any danger of being apprehended.

Zionscheck's reason for wanting to keep out of the clutches of the District of Columbia police is that they plan to clap him back into Gallinger hospital for mental observation.

"It would be the worst thing in the world for him to go back to Gallinger," Romney said. "He says they have not been treating him well. They'll ruin him forever."

After Romney made his offer, Zionscheck attempted to get in touch with his wife and with his secretary.

All day Zionscheck held at bay two police departments and a small army of newspaper reporters and photographers from behind the locked door of Suite 1609 in the new house office building.

WHOLESALE BEER MEN MUST GET U. S. PERMIT

for Dealers Under New Federal Laws.

Wholesale liquor and beer dealers in Georgia are required to obtain a permit from the Federal Alcoholic Administration in Washington before engaging in such business subsequent to June 30, W. E. Page, collector of internal revenue, explained yesterday.

The permits authorize only the sale of beer and Georgia-manufactured wines, and are not required of retail dealers.

Georgia law legalizes the sale of beer up to 6 per cent in alcoholic content and naturally fermented wine of home-grown products.

The alcoholic administration will deny wholesalers permits to sell hard liquors, prohibited by state law.

"Wholesalers obtaining these permits for the purpose of dealing in beer and Georgia-made wines and then engaging in the sale of hard liquor will place themselves in the status of bootleggers," Mr. Page said.

The collector said the alcohol tax unit would continue a close check on all firms obtaining permits and those found violating the permits will be assessed a $1,000 penalty.

A letter was mailed yesterday to all wholesale dealers in Georgia by Mr. Page advising them of the requirement to file a special tax return for the period of July 1, 1936 to June 30, 1937 if they continue the sale of alcoholic beverages after June 30.

"There is no present requirement," he said, "that a wholesale dealer in alcoholic beverages furnish evidence of having received a permit in order to secure a special tax stamp. Therefore, returns will be accepted from and special tax stamps will be issued to all wholesalers making proper application."

Collector Page said his office had no official information concerning the policy to be followed by the Federal Alcoholic Administration in issuing permits to wholesalers in Georgia, who are engaging in, or who propose to engage in, the business of selling imported wine and whisky.

"Presumably," he added, "there will be no question but that permits will be issued to engage in the sale of beer and Georgia-made wine."

The collector said that if liability to the special tax is incurred for any part of the period, and a permit is later denied or cancelled, no portion of the special tax paid to his office can be refunded.

Decatur Leader Passes

RAIFORD F. WATKINS.

Raiford F. Watkins, widely known young Decatur fraternal and religious leader and instructor in the mathematics department at Georgia Tech, died early yesterday morning at Alto, after an illness of six months.

Though only 25 years old, he had distinguished himself in civic life and in education, as had his father, the late F. O. Watkins.

Born October 26, 1900, at Newnan, Mr. Watkins moved to Decatur while a young man and lived there most of his life. His home was at 332 South McDonough street. Before joining the mathematics department at Georgia Tech, he taught in the public schools of Decatur and Charlotte, N. C.

He had been in failing health since January. His death followed a heart attack at 12:25 o'clock yesterday morning.

He received his own education at Georgia Tech, graduating with the class of 1921, and in the public schools at Decatur and Whitesburg, Ga.

Mr. Watkins was formerly treasurer of the Epworth League of Georgia Tech, a member of the North Georgia conference and was past president of the Atlanta Epworth League Union. He was a steward in the Decatur First Methodist church.

A former Decatur Scoutmaster, he also was regimental commander of the 6th coast artillery of organized reserves, having been a member of the reserve corps for 15 years. He was a past commander of Coeur de Lion commandery, Knights Templar, and a past high priest of the Decatur chapter of Royal Arch Masons. He was a Shriner and a member of the Pythagorean Masonic lodge, Decatur Civitan Club and the Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. F. O. Watkins; three brothers, Thomas H. Robert L. and James O. Watkins, all of Decatur, and several nieces, aunts and uncles.

Funeral services will be held at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Decatur First Methodist church, with the Rev. W. T. Hamby and Dr. D. P. McGeachy officiating. Burial will be in the Decatur cemetery. A. S. Turner, funeral director, will be in charge.

EDUCATION BODY SEEKS ACADEMIC FREEDOM

Dr. Frederick Hunter, of Oregon, Delivers Keynote Address.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 29.—(AP)—The National Education Association, ready to make a fight for academic freedom, was told by its keynote speaker today that educating America's children is a task set in a scene "both terrifying and inspiring."

The association's committee on academic freedom meanwhile released a report declaring "teachers must feel free in their teaching" and declaring "it is futile to expect independent, judicious and courageous minds to be developed in students . . . by timid and submissive teachers."

The report, issued by Dr. Henry L. Smith, education school dean at Indiana University, will be presented to the association.

The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of Oregon's higher education system, shortly after the association's legislative commission voted to ask repeal of the congressional ban on teaching of communism in the District of Columbia public schools.

The clause, written into a national appropriation bill, requires Washington, D. C., teachers to sign an oath before receiving pay checks that they have neither taught nor advocated communism.

Some committee members to the National Education Association's 74th annual convention classified the clause as an "insult" to teachers.

Dr. Hunter, addressing 5,000 teachers packed into the civic auditorium, declared:

"The world-wide proportions of the issues joined in this, our generation, can easily carry consternation to any but the stoutest hearted."

The chancellor addressed the convention after Miss Agnes Stevenson, state superintendent of public instruction in Iowa and association president, launched the general session and individual assemblies of 18 affiliated groups.

Set in Battle.

"At no time in history have conceptions of such import to the entire race been espoused by the millions of individuals constituting great nations or groups of nations and set in battle array, one against the other, as in the past two decades," Dr. Hunter said.

"In these two decades of tragic disillusionment, one nation after another, numbering population by the millions, for the false assurance of economic security turn in its frantic desperation of fear and dire need to the despotism of class dictatorship."

If the teaching profession accepts responsibility which the nation places upon it, three fundamental ideas must be kept before it, he said. They are:

1. The spread of knowledge for the ill of society.

2. Our American origin and the total of our life experience commits us irrevocably to the democratic philosophy of life.

3. The methods of science applied to the realm of economics confirm the conception that widespread economic prosperity is to be found in the constant increase of the levels of living and culture of the people.

4 WOMEN EMPLOYEES FIRED BY PARKER

"Disloyalty" Is Reason Made Public by Newly-Appointed Comptroller.

Comptroller General Homer C. Parker formally discharged four women employees of his department yesterday for "disloyalty."

Parker, newly appointed, said the four had been "running over" to the office of W. B. Harrison, the comptroller general whom Governor Talma had ousted several months ago, "with information."

The four discharged were: Miss Dallas Dumas, of the fuel oil tax division; Mrs. Libby Duffy, her assistant; Mrs. Pearl Steele, secretary to Dr. S. H. Wilson, state oil chemist, and Miss Martha M. Kimball, clerk and bookkeeper in the mileage tax and utility tax division.

Parker gave the four an informal notice last week but they said they would await formal discharge.

The women received regular pay checks through June 30 and others for 15 days' additional pay.

Mrs. Steele received the following letter, bearing the signature of Comptroller General Parker.

"In making what I believe to be desirable changes in the personnel of the comptroller general's office, I find that it is not going to be possible for me to use you as an employee of the office after June 30."

"Attached hereto is my official check for 15 days' extra pay, which I hope you will be willing to accept."

"I regret that circumstances exist which make this action on my part imperative."

STORY BY MINSTER WINS PRAISE BY KEY

Dr. Louis D. Newton, pastor of Druid Hills Baptist church, yesterday drew commendation from Mayor Key on the story Newton wrote for "The Constitution" concerning the dedication of a little negro church built by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Gilman in honor of their negro cook.

"I am glad to know that you made a preacher out of you, they did not destroy a good newspaper man," Key wrote Dr. Newton. "We could not afford to spare some preachers, but we cannot afford to spare a good newspaper writer."

COURT ORDERS REFUND BY EX-HOTEL MANAGER

Henry Albert, former manager and co-receiver of the Georgian Terrace hotel, yesterday was ordered to make good an alleged $2,312 discrepancy in his accounts or face punishment for contempt of court.

Judge E. D. Thomas signed the order for Albert to turn the money over to Paul E. Johnson, receiver, within 24 hours in Fulton superior court.

Albert yesterday failed to appear at a hearing in court concerning the auditor's report of apparent shortages amounting to $2,300. He was manager of the hotel for several years and was a co-receiver until early this year, when Judge Thomas removed him and appointed Johnson, a lawyer, as the sole receiver for the hotel company, which was thrown into receivership in 1935.

Snake Is Introduced In R. S. James' Trial

Young Niece of Defendant Becomes Hysterical When Shown Reptile.

LOS ANGELES, June 29.—(AP)—A rattlesnake the state charges Robert R. James used in slaying his seventh wife, Mary, struck repeatedly at its glass cage in superior court today while a snake expert testified concerning its deadliness.

The defendant, a stocky, red-haired barber, stared at the serpent and its companion, only a few feet away from him. When court recessed at noon he said to his attorney:

"I'd like to take a look at those snakes myself."

A bailiff stood beside him as he peered into the cage containing the reptiles. Their evil-looking heads thrust against the glass.

James paled visibly. The snakes are those which Charles Hope, ex-sailor, testified he purchased for the defendant. He saw James thrust the barred leg of his wife into a box holding one snake, he said, and later helped him carry her body and toss it into a fish pond after James drowned her in a bathtub.

The state charges James murdered his seventh wife last August 4 to collect $20,000 insurance.

Women in the courtroom gasped and recoiled when the snakes were brought in. Lois Wright, 21-year-old niece of James, became hysterical. The snake expert, Ronald Kirby, said snakes are able to register hits on the objects of their attacks more than three-quarters of their length away.

The wound made by a rattlesnake's fangs, he testified, can be seen a day after.

"In my case, when I was bitten, I could see the puncture for three weeks afterward," he said.

"The fangs are curved and if the victim jerked or the snake pulled sideways, a tear would be made taking the fangs out."

Dr. A. F. Wagner, county autopsy surgeon, has testified that a wound found on Mrs. James' leg was a "puncture with slight tear."

The state seeking to establish the insurance motive for the alleged slaying, called insurance men to the stand.

Berry, of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, testified he insured Mrs. James for $5,000 and that James expressed considerable curiosity about double indemnity payments in his case.

Berry testified he saw James last August 5, the day Mrs. James' body was found in a fish pond in the James yard, and that he told him his wife was "pretty well."

Max Goetz, insurance agent, testified he insured Mrs. James for $700 after James had inquired about a $5,000 policy for her.

'ALARMING' INCREASE IN AUTO DEATHS NOTED

five months of 1935 and 1936 for the nation as a whole were:

	1935	1936	Per. Chg.
January	2,750	2,850	+ 4
February	1,900	2,150	+ 13
March	2,200	2,400	+ 9
April	2,400	2,500	+ 4
May	2,970	3,100	+ 4
Total	13,220	13,000	- 2

The council report showed May was the first month this year in which cities failed to reduce deaths over the corresponding month of 1935. There was no increase in the city toll, however.

Listed as "safest" cities were: Over 500,000 population, New York city, 9.3 deaths per 100,000 population.

From 250,000 to 500,000 population, Providence, R. I., 7.5.

From 100,000 to 250,000, Fall River, Mass., no deaths this year.

From 50,000 to 100,000, Holyoke, Mass., no deaths.

From 25,000 to 50,000, Bay City, Mich., no deaths.

BOY, 7, SEES MOTHER
SLAIN IN HOTEL ROOM

asked him not to hit my mother and he kept saying she would be all right. He had one hand down on her face and she didn't say anything. The man asked me where my papa was and I told him and he asked me about my other papa—and I said 'Los Angeles,' and this big black man, he said, 'I'll take you and your mother to Los Angeles at 10 o'clock today.'

"I asked the man my mother's name and he told me the wrong name and then he got off the bed where he had been kneeling over my mother and went to the dresser. He began pulling out the drawers and throwing the things all out, looking for money."

Writing on Mirror.

"Then he took a piece of red chalk (lip rouge) out of the dresser drawer and wrote on the mirror. Then he went out on the fire escape and I went to sleep."

"I guess I woke up about 5:30 o'clock. I didn't say anything to my mother. I got dressed and went downstairs and told the clerk my mother was dead."

Police were of two minds about whether the murderer was a negro or a white man. They were told by Jimmy, said the man talked like a negro but investigators favored the stocking disguise theory.

One reason was that Jimmy, who had arrived yesterday alone from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., to visit his mother, said the "black man" washed his hands after the killing and they seemed to be "lighter in color." The washbasin and towels were smudged.

Three "Suspects."

It was learned that at least three men were more or less involved in Mrs. Castle's recent life. They were: Sigmund Schaps, 35, master of ceremonies at the Palace Gardens, where Mrs. Castle had been employed, who was in her room about 9 p. m. last night.

Robert Taylor, 30, of New York, jobless salesman living at a hotel next door, who took Mrs. Castle and Jimmy for a speedboat ride yesterday afternoon. She told him about an "insanely jealous" boy friend.

Faber Castle, from whom Mrs. Castle was divorced two years ago, formerly in Los Angeles but believed now in a Chicago butcher shop. Police sought him.

James Thompson, father of Jimmy Taylor, Mrs. Castle's first husband, was reported to live in Boston.

One Man Cleared.

Taylor was released after questioning. Schaps at first denied being in Mrs. Castle's room but admitted it when police confronted him with the boy. He said he telephoned Mrs. Castle about midnight.

Investigators, catching their breath after a day of whirlwind activity, put the jigsaw clues together until they saw what they believed was a crime deliberately planned to provide as many false clues as possible.

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan late today was reported still questioning Schaps, apparently the last person except the murderer, to talk with Mrs. Castle.

Schaps was given a "lie detector" test at Northwestern University's crime detection laboratory late today but the result was inconclusive, except to indicate that he was "under great nervous strain" according to Police Captain William O'Brien.

FARM PRICE INDEX
SHOW 4-POINT RISE

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(AP)—The Bureau of Agriculture Economics reported today that the farm price index increased 4 points from May 15 to June 15, indicating largely by upturns in potatoes, hogs, apples, oranges and grapefruit.

Prices of wool, cotton, eggs, butterfat and corn also increased while prices of wheat, sheep and lambs declined.

The index was 107 on June 15 compared with 103 on May 15 and 104 on June 15 one year ago. The peak for this year was 109 in January and February. Average prices paid to farmers during the five-year period, 1930-1934, equal 100 in the index.

Although prices paid farmers averaged higher than during the pre-war period on June 15, the purchasing power of farm products was below the pre-war level for the reason that average prices paid by farmers for goods purchased were higher than during the 1929-1934 period, the bureau said.

CHASE OF DIME FATAL TO HIT-RUN CAR VICTIM

J. A. Lewis, 32, Dies at
Grady Hospital of Injuries
Suffered Sunday.

J. A. Lewis, 32, of 45 Krog street, died yesterday morning at Grady hospital from injuries received early Sunday morning when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver on Fair street near Chastain street. Witnesses said Lewis was trying to retrieve a dime dropped by a child when he was struck by the machine.

The death of Lewis yesterday marks the 32d automobile accident fatality within the city limits of Atlanta this year and the second fatality of the month.

The 31st death of the month occurred June 12, when a negro bicyclist struck a truck at the corner of Cooper and Whithall streets.

Lewis was admitted to Grady hospital suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries and died approximately 24 hours later. Funeral arrangements will be announced by H. M. Patterson & Son.

Mrs. E. S. Pittman, wife of the McDonough citizen who was killed Sunday when his car collided with another machine on the new Macon highway near McDonough, was transferred from Grady hospital to Emory University hospital yesterday for treatment of a fractured jaw and other injuries. Her condition was reported good.

The condition of Miss Agnes Peterson, of Ellenwood, passenger in the car driven by Luther Stephens, of Atlanta, which collided with the machine driven by Pittman, was said to be "only fair" at Grady hospital yesterday.

Miss Agnes Peterson suffered a fractured skull and her sister received a fractured jaw in the accident. Approximately a dozen other automobile accident victims of week-end driving were reported slightly injured in various Atlanta hospitals.

Wisconsin's Job Insurance Law For 400,000 Effective Tomorrow

MADISON, Wis., June 29.—(AP)—Wisconsin's new unemployment insurance law—the nation's first—goes into effect Wednesday.

Four hundred thousand workers will be eligible to receive benefits under its provisions if they lose their jobs after it begins to operate on July 1.

A $12,000,000 fund will be on hand if payments are needed on the first day.

This cozy nest egg was built up by Wisconsin employees under the state unemployment insurance law since 1934. The pioneer statute took hold then to cover employers of 10 or more persons long before enactment of the federal unemployment insurance clause in the national social security act.

The Wisconsin law was placed on the statute books by the 1931 special session of the legislature. Enforcement, however, was delayed by the succeeding legislature until 1934 because industry found itself financially unable to assume the cost.

In 1934 the employees began contributing up to 2 per cent of their monthly payrolls toward separate reserve accounts which have now reached $12,000,000 and will increase as time goes on.

Not until July 11 of this year was the full amount originally made subject to withdrawals for the benefit of workers laid off. The 1935 legislature amended it, however, to dovetail with the federal law. Full operation of the statute thus was delayed from July 1 to the same date this year.

Approximately 8,000 employees are affected and the 400,000 workers potentially eligible for assistance if they lose their jobs are those earning an average of $1,500 a year or less.

The minimum benefit is $5 a week. This is increased to $10 for those whose full time pay is $25 a week; to $12.50 for average workers who normally receive $30 a week.

The duration of the benefits depends on how long a person has worked for his employer after the probationary service period has expired.

DWIGHT BEARD DENIED NEW TRIAL IN TEXAS

DALLAS, Tex., June 29.—(AP)—Augustus Dwight Beard, 26, sentenced to death April 10 for the slaying of Detective John Roberts during a hold-up last December, was denied a new trial today by Judge Grover Adams.

Frank Ivey, counsel for the North Carolina youth, gave formal notice of appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Ivey's motion for a new trial was based on alleged misconduct in the jury room. Judge Adams denied the motion after hearing testimony from five jurors.

Each admitted they knew Beard was an escaped lifer from the North Carolina state penitentiary but they said this knowledge did not influence them in passing on the youth's guilt.

Roberts was shot two days before Christmas when he attempted to draw his pistol while menaced by the gun of a bandit in a garage here.

FINE CROPS REPORTED IN MOULTRIE SECTION

Hail Takes Heavy Toll, But Tobacco Quality Best in Years.

MOULTRIE, Ga., June 29.—While several hundred farmers were hard hit by hailstorms last week, crop conditions throughout southwest Georgia are as promising as they have ever been at this date in June, farm observers have declared today. One important crop—watermelons—is being marketed and the prices received are the most satisfactory they have been in several years.

John Galloway, Moultrie tobacco demonstrator, declares it is apparent at this time that a bigger per cent of Colquitt county's leaf crop will be suitable for the manufacture of the better grades of cigars than has been true since he has been in the county. Similar reports have been received from Cook, Lowndes, Mitchell, Thomas and from across the line in Florida. Curing is well under way throughout the lower part of the belt and the bulk of the crop will be ready for market by the time the auction season opens the latter part of July or early in August.

Insurance adjusters said that hail played havoc on 1,200 farms in this section of the state. Losses ranged from around 25 to 100 per cent. About 90 per cent of the tobacco farmers carry hail insurance and they will not lose heavily on this crop. But the same storm which damaged tobacco also played havoc with cotton, corn, watermelons and truck, and losses will run into a tremendous sum.

BUSINESS GAINS Thomasville Plant Shows Increase.

THOMASVILLE, Ga., June 29.—(P)—The city waterworks and light plant earned net income of $26,316.45 in 1935, D. R. Fringle, superintendent, announced in his annual report. Gross revenue totaled $106,491.25, while expenses, including operation, maintenance and depreciation amounted to $140,174.80.

Production of both electricity and water increased eight per cent over the previous year.

LONGER SEASON ASKED FOR TOBACCO MARKET

Extension of the buying season for Georgia tobacco ten days was sought yesterday by Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Linder.

Linder in a letter to five of the large manufacturers of cigars said the growers of Georgia in the past have been badly handicapped in marketing their tobacco, due to the short time the Georgia tobacco warehouses have been kept open.

Linder said he understood the tobacco crops of North and South Carolina have been damaged by dry weather.

"This year we have some mighty good tobacco in Georgia," Linder wrote. "I want to urge that you make your plans so as to give the Georgia tobacco growers a fair break in the marketing of their tobacco by adding at least ten more days to the marketing season and keeping the warehouses open that much longer so the Georgia farmers can prepare and market their tobacco without having to rush their tobacco on the floors at one time."

FOREST FIRES ARE CUT BY PROTECTIVE BODIES

Nine Large Timber Groups in 70 Counties Reduce Fire Hazard.

WAYCROSS, Ga., June 29.—The Waycross district of the Georgia Forestry Department, including 20 counties, reports this year by far the best record it has ever made for the small amount of timbered acreage burned by forest fires. It is announced by the district forester, R. D. Franklin.

This district has nine large timber protective organizations which protect timber acreage in every county in the district.

These protective organizations now have 45 steel lookout towers and are erecting more. All of them have paid full-time secretaries and own their own firefighting equipment such as tractors, plows, graders and trucks.

One organization has its own headquarters building at Homerville and is the first T. P. O. in Georgia to erect its own headquarters. This organization, also, is the first to install radio protective systems for the detection and control of fires.

It is anticipated, however, that other organizations soon will have their own headquarters buildings.

Public sentiment throughout the district is now reported as stronger than ever before in support of organized forest protection. In several counties the counties are paying the organization fees for small timber owners in order that their acreage may be protected.

ENTRY DATE IS SET FOR JULY 29 IN FLOYD

ROME, Ga., June 29.—The Floyd county democratic executive committee has set July 29 as the date for the election in the races for members of the lower house of the general assembly of Georgia and one place on the county board of roads and revenue will close.

The committee also placed the entrance fee of candidates at $75 for both the legislative and the county board races and adopted the usual rules to govern the primary which is to be held on the same date as the state primary, September 9.

The rules set out that the candidates for the general assembly must designate in their announcement who they are opposing for a place in the delegation. The members of the committee from each of the 19 districts and justices of the peace will act as primary managers.

Two Historic Markers on St. Simons Are To Be Unveiled Next Thursday

One Tablet Will Be Placed at Fort Erected by Oglethorpe, While Other Will Mark Site of Old Military Road Established by Georgia Founder in 1733.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., July 29.—Programs for the unveiling of two historic markers on St. Simons Island Thursday afternoon by the Georgia chapter of the Daughters of American Colonists and the Brunswick chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution in connection with the Fort Frederica bicentennial pageant and celebration were announced today by officers of the respective organizations.

To Mark Two Sites.

The first bronze tablet, set in a base of tabby, will be unveiled at the site of former Fort St. Simons, erected by English forces under General James Edward Oglethorpe, founder of Georgia, in 1733, and will be under the direction of the Daughters of American Colonists.

The unveiling of the second tablet will be under the direction of Mrs. Thomas C. Mell, Atlanta, state regent, and the national organization of the Daughters of the American Revolution in connection with the Fort Frederica bicentennial pageant and celebration were announced today by officers of the respective organizations.

The marker will be by Walter Dunwoody, young son of Mrs. William Dunwoody, direct descendant of the late William McIntosh, who fought with Oglethorpe's forces at the Battle of Bloody Marsh. The road was used by the English soldiers during that decisive conflict.

The United States Marine band from Parris Island, S. C., will appear at both ceremonies and a color guard from the Brunswick national guardsmen will also participate.

The base of the markers, constructed of tabby as used by Oglethorpe in the building of Fort St. Simons and Fort Frederica, were designed by William Robertson, Brunswick. The bronze tablets were struck at the Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, in connection with the recent WPA program.

THUGS INVADE PORCH, ROB, BEAT 4 VICTIMS

Two Couples Are Marched Across Street to Vacant Yard for Theft.

One of the most audacious crimes in recent Atlanta police history was reported early this morning after two armed negro holdup men had walked onto a porch of a residence at 450 Piedmont avenue upon which two men and two women were sitting, forced their victims to walk across the street to the rear of a vacant house and there to rob them.

The general descriptions of the pair resembled those of two of the holdup trio who Saturday and Sunday staged numerous brazen holdups, police said. The two men were of medium height and color, although they wore different clothes, and their ruthless tactics corresponded to the actions of the thugs in the other assaults.

Four men, of 221 E. Forrest avenue, told detectives that he was sitting on the porch with Miss Martha Goolsby, Miss Dorothy Jewett and another man he knew only as "Whitey" when the two men came and forced them to walk across the street to the rear of the vacant dwelling.

Here, Fowler reported, the negroes struck the two young women, robbed Fowler of $15 and the three others of small sums of money, forced their victims to lie down on the grass and walked away.

Both negroes were said to be tall and were wearing light trousers and dark shirts. One of them wore a cowboy hat and the other a cap.

CHURCH BELL RINGS FOR WILLIAM GOBER

Prominent Cobb Planter and Ex-Oil Inspector Passes.

MARIETTA, Ga., June 29.—Last rites were held here this afternoon for William Mayes Gober, 73, former city council member, prominent Cobb planter and for many years a state oil inspector. Services were held at the First Methodist church, Rev. T. B. Byerton and Rev. J. H. Patton in charge.

Mr. Gober died at his residence here yesterday after a long illness. A pioneer Cobb citizen, he was born at Camp Ground community, where he lived for 20 years before moving to Marietta. His parents were the late T. A. and Atholene Mayes Gober.

He served as oil inspector in the administration of Commissioner J. J. Brown and was councilman for the city of Marietta under the first administration of Mayor T. M. Brumby. Besides his wife he is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Mary Steele, Mrs. G. C. Conley and Mrs. N. B. Browne, all of Atlanta, and Miss Gladys and Alice Gober; two sons, W. M. and T. A. Gober; two sisters, Mrs. Alice Gober Brown and Mrs. N. M. Conley, and one brother, Judge George F. Gober, all of Marietta.

Mr. Gober's death occurred suddenly Saturday morning near Lyerly, while he was at the throttle of his engine on the regular passenger train from Marietta to Chattahoochee. While running between Berryton and Lyerly, the fireman noticed the train running too fast and upon investigation, found Mr. Gober slumped over in his seat and unconscious. Taking charge of the engine, the fireman ran it the few miles to Lyerly, where a doctor pronounced Mr. Gober dead, with apoplexy as the probable cause.

The body was brought to Cedartown on the same train. Mr. Gober entered the services of the Central in 1890 and was promoted to engineer in 1896 and held his post continuously since that time. He was widely known in railroad circles, was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and a Mason.

Survivors include his widow and three children, Rev. J. H. Turner and Miss Ruth and Edna Turner, and a brother, Clarence Turner, also an engineer on the Central. All are from Cedartown. He is also survived by two sisters, Mrs. H. W. Flournoy, Cedartown, and Mrs. Holmes Smith, Rome.

JAPAN'S CO-OPERATION ON SHIPS IS REFUSED

Experts Agree That This Means 16-Inch Guns Will Be Retained.

LONDON, June 29.—(P)—The crumbling structure of naval limitation received two staggering blows today.

Japan officially refused to adhere to the 1936 London treaty, signed by Great Britain, the United States and France, and it was learned the British would shortly invoke the escalator clause of the 1930 treaty to save excess destroyers.

Formal notification to Washington and Tokyo that Britain wants to invoke the escalator clause will be sent within a few days, diplomatic quarters said.

The United States will benefit by Britain's use of the escalator, which will free all signatures to the same extent. The United States also has built over treaty limits but her destroyers are older.

Observers said it was too early to judge the full effect of Japan's refusal to adhere to the new treaty, but agreed it jeopardizes and probably nullifies one of the main provisions of the treaty—the 14-inch gun limit on battleships. Unless Japan and Italy agree to smaller guns before April 1, 1937, 16-inch guns will continue to be legal.

WHAT I THINK ABOUT Life Insurance

R. W. COURTS, JR.
Courts & Company

Life insurance is a friend to everyone and a necessary partner to every business man. It is a great institution providing protection for the family, and protection to the estate against the natural business hazards incurred in the usual routine of the average business man. It further provides a means for saving and conservative investment.

It seems to me that everyone should seek the sense of security that accompanies a life insurance policy. The time to take it is when one can get it rather than when needed, when it may be too late.

Not only have the great life insurance companies contributed substantially to the economic welfare and building of our whole country, but it is my observation that funds entrusted to these institutions are generally well administered, giving the policyholder full value.

This is the seventh of a series of messages from Atlanta citizens prominent in business and civic affairs who will cite their views and opinions on life insurance. This series will be followed with interest by many who appreciate the sound viewpoints of successful men. Watch for those to follow.

FEDERAL AID PROMISED WALLACE WILL TOUR NEGROES BY SEC. ICKES DROUTH AREA TODAY

New Deal Official Warns Race Not To Become Bitter of Past Wrongs.

BALTIMORE, June 29.—(P)—Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, said tonight that the New Deal conception of democracy will help the negro "because he preeminently belongs to the class that the new democracy is designed especially to aid."

In a speech before the annual conference of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Ickes recounted what the New Deal had done for negroes and told what it intended to do.

"If we except the Indians, of the many groups which have been exploited, Ickes said, 'negroes perhaps have been the greatest sufferers. They were the most ignorant, the most helpless and the most docile.'"

At the same time, he warned the race not to become bitter over its past wrongs. "Hate," he said, "is a venom which poisons the blood and incapacitates the person who generates it."

President Roosevelt, Ickes asserted "has realized as no other president since Lincoln seemed to realize, that the mere existence in the federal constitution of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments is no guarantee of their enforcement."

Among the acts of the President, Ickes cited the provision that relief should be given to negroes regardless of color. Also, he said, work relief jobs have been provided for both white persons and negroes without discrimination. The farm aid schemes have been administered equally for both races, he continued.

The negro will benefit, Ickes went on, through the slum clearance program and the rural resettlement work. The social security program will be of further benefit to negro workers who are unable to save on their present wages, he added.

nounced, and that, for the most part, Wallace would travel alone. He planned to leave Washington tomorrow, Appleby said, adding he might be accompanied during the first days of the trip by other Agriculture Department officials.

Wallace has a speaking engagement at Duluth, Minn., on July 2, after which it was indicated he would proceed into the Dakotas, Montana and Wyoming, where the drouth is causing the worst damage.

The special committee discussed the situation with Wallace, Rexford G. Tugwell, resettlement administrator, Acting Director of the Federal Emergency Administration in War Relocation, and Aubrey Williams, assistant WPA administrator, before going into executive session to prepare recommendations for federal assistance to President Roosevelt on his return to Washington tomorrow.

The conference discussed means of financial relief, the possibility of another government livestock buying program and methods for administering relief.

It was indicated that funds would be made available by the WPA and the Rural Resettlement Administration which received $85,000,000 under the new relief act.

Unofficial estimates of funds needed have ranged between $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Congress appropriated $520,000,000 for relief during the great drouth of 1934. Approximately $500,000,000 was used. The current drouth, it was said, has not yet become as severe as that of two years ago, most feed is available locally, livestock numbers are not so heavy and market prices are much higher.

The drouth committee, under the chairmanship of Jesse W. Tapp, assistant AAA administrator, closed its doors to prepare its recommendations, and no announcement was expected to be made until they have been reviewed by the White House.

Others in Conference. Those in the conference besides Tapp included C. W. Warburton, director of the Agricultural Extension Service; Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service; A. G. Black, chief of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics; and W. F. Callender, assistant AAA administrator.

A sixth member, Joseph L. Bailey, director of rural rehabilitation, was in Lincoln, Neb., to confer with W. W. Alexander, assistant rural resettlement administrator and state and local authorities before proceeding into the drouth zone to estimate the extent of government assistance needed.

Regional WPA officials were called to meet WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins in St. Paul tomorrow. It was said that WPA work programs to be mapped out would include construction of farm-to-market roads and erection of small dams in connection with water conservation programs.

Government authorities also were keeping in close touch with drouth developments in southern states. Conditions in Tennessee and parts of Kentucky were said to be about as serious as in the Dakotas.

The drouth committee later announced it would work with the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in preparing a national livestock feed survey to be released July 10.

The proposed feed information survey would be similar to one established in Kansas City in the 1934 drouth, serving as a clearing house to supply drouth areas with data on the best source of supply with view to quantity, price, location and kinds of feed desired.

J. B. Kincher, of the United States Weather Bureau, said today that only the substantial and frequent rains in July and August could prevent the present drouth from becoming "at least comparable to that of 1934."

The department said that new all-time records for dryness had been established in several states for June, with only one more day of the month to be heard from. It listed the states as Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi and added that Ohio valley states "apparently have either beaten their past June records for dryness or else come very close to them."

WHEAT BELT PARLEY IS SLATED TODAY.—(P)—Another scorching day assailed wide sections of the farm belt as federal and state authorities gathered here tonight to speed relief to thousands of disaffected farmers.

Temperatures mounted toward the 100 degree mark in Nebraska, and Iowa but a northwest breeze was expected to bring slight although temporary relief.

There is no rain in sight," added Minding.

Heat is general throughout the United States east of the Rockies. Huron, S. D.; St. Louis, North Platte, Neb.; Dodge City, Kansas, Chattanooga and Birmingham all report temperatures of 100 degrees or better.

"Please explain," asked Minding. "that there is no such thing as a heat wave that rolls in on us as cold waves do. Our cold waves roll down from Canada and the Great Lakes and from over in Texas. A heat wave is a different sort of proposition. It is homegrown. It is not an importation. Heat is always due to local conditions."

"For instance, while towns all over the middle west were sweltering Sunday in 100-degree weather or worse, Chicago's temperatures rose no higher than 88 degrees. Apparently Chicago had a wind from the lake. At St. Louis, Mo., Sunday, the lowest temperature was 45 degrees and the highest 58 degrees."

Skies will be partly cloudy Tuesday, said Minding.

other and more violent and murderous February 6." (They referred to the sanguinary riots of February 6, 1934.)

The general confederation of labor made official announcement its enrollment, following the recent strikes, was now approximately 3,500,000 members.

Interior ministry and other officials continued to seek settlement of walk-outs of Paris bookmakers, Lorraine iron-steel hands and St. Nazaire naval shipyard workers.

ed tonight by the Greek jurist, Nicolas Politis.

Behind Politis' proposal was the idea the United States, Germany and Japan might join the League if members were freed of general sanctions responsibility.

Politis proposed to limit the participation of nations in economic and financial sanctions to those directly interested in any conflict and to restrict military sanctions to a regional group of states of which the victim of aggression would be a member.

He also proposed a new interpretation of Article 10 whereby nations would respect, but not undertake to guarantee, the territorial independence of other nations.

He suggested the college of statesmen would advise the council on the

Heat-Repelling Equipment of Little Value

Scattered showers over the weekend and today brought limited relief to moisture needing areas but meteorologists termed the rain too late to aid northern Wyoming's parched lands and the precipitation overlooked the severely burned counties of North Dakota which continued in the grip of a heat wave.

Hail and severe windstorms accompanied the rain in northeastern and eastern South Dakota, destroying some farm buildings and crops. Near Huron, the hail was described as the "worst in 30 years."

One death and thousands of dollars in damage to crops was blamed on a series of wind and hail storms in eastern North Carolina.

Eight thousand Montana farm families were added to the estimated 75,000 in northwestern states suffering from drouth in a statement from Governor Elmer Holt. He planned to fly to the conference here tomorrow.

The will concern themselves specifically with needs of the spring wheat belt, where the drouth has already burned out millions of bushels of the expected food crop for 1936.

Chicago crop experts likened the northwest crop situation to that resulting from the drouth of 1934 when only 98,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced, the lowest on record.

The precipitation over the weekend ranged from an inch and a half in sections of Minnesota and a half inch in parts of North Dakota to mere trickles of moisture. The showers fell in parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

101 Is Hottest Recently.

June 29 is a memorable day in Atlanta's hot weather history. Just five years ago yesterday—June 29, 1931—the thermometer recorded officially 101 degrees, which is the hottest the city has felt in those five years.

Yesterday morning, as Foremaster Minding foresaw a possible 97-degree peak for the day, he announced that the heat wave would reach its peak today with 98 degrees or better.

At 4 p. m. yesterday, when the 99 degrees knocked his forecast into the discard Minding's only comment was: "We had 80-degree weather Monday morning. I will say this: Tuesday, as I said this morning, that the temperature range will be between 78 degrees in the morning and 98 degrees in the afternoon. If I am a few degrees off, I am still doing well."

So, Atlanta can expect to awaken this morning in temperatures approximately at yesterday morning's level and look forward to a day of discomfort equal to yesterday's.

No Rain In Sight.

"There is no rain in sight," added Minding.

Heat is general throughout the United States east of the Rockies. Huron, S. D.; St. Louis, North Platte, Neb.; Dodge City, Kansas, Chattanooga and Birmingham all report temperatures of 100 degrees or better.

"Please explain," asked Minding. "that there is no such thing as a heat wave that rolls in on us as cold waves do. Our cold waves roll down from Canada and the Great Lakes and from over in Texas. A heat wave is a different sort of proposition. It is homegrown. It is not an importation. Heat is always due to local conditions."

"For instance, while towns all over the middle west were sweltering Sunday in 100-degree weather or worse, Chicago's temperatures rose no higher than 88 degrees. Apparently Chicago had a wind from the lake. At St. Louis, Mo., Sunday, the lowest temperature was 45 degrees and the highest 58 degrees."

Skies will be partly cloudy Tuesday, said Minding.

other and more violent and murderous February 6." (They referred to the sanguinary riots of February 6, 1934.)

The general confederation of labor made official announcement its enrollment, following the recent strikes, was now approximately 3,500,000 members.

Interior ministry and other officials continued to seek settlement of walk-outs of Paris bookmakers, Lorraine iron-steel hands and St. Nazaire naval shipyard workers.

Heat-Repelling Equipment of Little Value

Scattered showers over the weekend and today brought limited relief to moisture needing areas but meteorologists termed the rain too late to aid northern Wyoming's parched lands and the precipitation overlooked the severely burned counties of North Dakota which continued in the grip of a heat wave.

Hail and severe windstorms accompanied the rain in northeastern and eastern South Dakota, destroying some farm buildings and crops. Near Huron, the hail was described as the "worst in 30 years."

One death and thousands of dollars in damage to crops was blamed on a series of wind and hail storms in eastern North Carolina.

Eight thousand Montana farm families were added to the estimated 75,000 in northwestern states suffering from drouth in a statement from Governor Elmer Holt. He planned to fly to the conference here tomorrow.

The will concern themselves specifically with needs of the spring wheat belt, where the drouth has already burned out millions of bushels of the expected food crop for 1936.

Chicago crop experts likened the northwest crop situation to that resulting from the drouth of 1934 when only 98,000,000 bushels of wheat were produced, the lowest on record.

The precipitation over the weekend ranged from an inch and a half in sections of Minnesota and a half inch in parts of North Dakota to mere trickles of moisture. The showers fell in parts of Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana and Illinois.

101 Is Hottest Recently.

June 29 is a memorable day in Atlanta's hot weather history. Just five years ago yesterday—June 29, 1931—the thermometer recorded officially 101 degrees, which is the hottest the city has felt in those five years.

Yesterday morning, as Foremaster Minding foresaw a possible 97-degree peak for the day, he announced that the heat wave would reach its peak today with 98 degrees or better.

At 4 p. m. yesterday, when the 99 degrees knocked his forecast into the discard Minding's only comment was: "We had 80-degree weather Monday morning. I will say this: Tuesday, as I said this morning, that the temperature range will be between 78 degrees in the morning and 98 degrees in the afternoon. If I am a few degrees off, I am still doing well."

themselves of different policies in this irresponsible way.

"The spectacle which it presents is of a cabinet in dissolution, the prime minister as Little Boy Blue, away in Chequers fast asleep, with sheep and hounds all over the place."

As a matter of "urgent public importance" the house decided to discuss tonight declarations made by ministers outside its walls.

Duff Cooper Defended.

The prime minister was represented by Sir John Simon, home secretary, who told the house the Paris speech of Duff Cooper was not a declaration of policy but a speech "devoted to stressing the elements common to the people of both countries."

"Where is he?" laborites demanded when Baldwin did not appear.

"Apparently he (Baldwin) thinks there is a lull," Attlee said. "But there is certainly no lull in the ministerial indiscretions."

Sir John Simon said the war secretary's observations were not designed to conflict with the policy fully stated in the house by Foreign Secretary Eden June 18 and by Prime Minister Baldwin June 23.

He revealed that the draft of the war secretary's speech first was submitted to the foreign office and later altered, but that Eden had not read it in its final form before its Paris delivery.

O. HENRY ENCORE

The Lost Works of W. Sidney Porter (O. Henry)

AN ODD CHARACTER

A Post reporter stood on the San Jacinto street bridge last night. Half of a May moon swam in a sea of buttermilk clouds high in the east. Below, the bayou gleamed dully in the semi-darkness, merging into inky blackness farther down. A steam tug glided noiselessly down the sluggish waters, leaving a shattered trail of molten silver. Foot passengers across the bridge were scarce. A few belated Fifth-warders straggled past, clattering along the uneven planks of the footway. The reporter took off his hat and allowed a cool breath of a great city to fan his brow. A mellow voice, with, however, too much dramatic inflection, murmured at his elbow, and quoted incorrectly from Byron:

"Oh, moon, and darkening river, ye are wondrous strong; Yet lovely in your strength as in the light of a dark eye in woman."

The reporter turned and saw a magnificent specimen of the genus tramp. He was attired in a garb to be viewed with wonder, and even awe. His coat was a black frock, fallen into decay some years ago. Under it he wore a jaunty striped blazer, too tight to button, and the ghost of a collar peered above its intricacies. His trousers were patched and torn, and frayed, and faded away at the bottom into ghostly, indescribable feet shod in shapeless leather and dust.

His face, however, was the face of a hilarious faun. His eyes were brilliant and piercing, and a god-like smile lit up a face that owed little to art or soap.

His nose was classic, and his nostrils thin and nervous, betokening either race or fever. His brow was high and smooth, and his regular, lofty and superior, though a bristly beard of uncertain cut, and grizzly effect covered the lower part of his countenance.

"You know what I am, sir?" asked this strange being. The reporter gazed at his weird form and shook his head.

"Your reply reassures me," said the wanderer. "It convinces me that I have not made a mistake in addressing you. You have some of the instincts of a gentleman, because you forbore to say what you know well, namely, that I am a tramp, and a damned tramp, and I am one, but no ordinary one. I have a university education, I am a Greek and Latin scholar, and I have held the chair of English literature in a college known all over the world. I am a biologist, and more than all, I am a student of the wonderful book, man. The first accomplishment is the only one I still practice, if I am not grown unskilled, I can read you."

He bent a discriminating look upon the reporter. The reporter puffed at his cigar and submitted to the scrutiny.

"You are a newspaperman," said the tramp. "I will tell you how I reached the conclusion. I have been waiting you for 10 minutes. I knew you were not a man of leisure, for you walked upon the bridge with a somewhat rapid step. You stopped and began to watch the effect of the moon upon the water. A businessman would have been hurrying along to supper. When you got your cigar out you had to feel in three or four pockets before you found one. A newspaperman has many cigars forced upon him in the course of a day, and he has to distribute them among several pockets. Again, you have no pencil sticking out of your pocket. No newspaperman ever has. Am I right in my conjecture?"

The reporter made a shrewd guess.

"You are right," he said, "and your having seen me going into a newspaper office some time ago no doubt assisted you in your diagnosis."

The tramp laughed.

"You are wrong," he said. "You were coming out when I saw you yesterday. I like a man like you. You can give me a good time, and you are the first man to whom I have spoken of myself. You have not offered me money, and by that have won my esteem. I am a tramp, but I never accept money from anyone. Why should I? The richest man in your town is a pauper compared with me. I see you smile. Come, indulge me for a while. I am afflicted at times with cacophonous loquacity, and rarely do I meet a gentleman who will give me an ear."

The postman had seen so many people with the corners rubbed off, and so many men who always say and do what they are expected to, that he fell into the humor of listening to this man who said unexpected things. And then he was so strange to look upon.

The tramp was not drunk, and his appearance was not that of a drinker. His features were refined and clearcut in the moonlight; and his voice—well, his voice was queer. It sounded like a man talking plainly in his sleep.

The postman concluded that his mind was unbalanced.

The tramp spoke again.

"I said I had plenty of money," he continued, "and I have. I will show a few—a very few of the wonders that you respectable, plodding, well-dressed people do not imagine exists. Look at this ring."

He took from his finger a curious carved ring of beaten copper, wrought into a design that the moonlight did not suffer to be deciphered, and handed it to the reporter.

"Rub that ring thrice with the thumb of your left hand," said the tramp.

The reporter did so, with a creepy feeling that made him smile to himself. The tramp's eyes beamed, and he pointed into the air, following with his finger the movements of some invisible object.

"It is Arimathea," he said, "the slave of the ring—catch!"

He swept his hollowed hand into space, scooping up something, and handed it to the reporter.

"See!" he said, "golden coins. I can bring them at will in unlimited numbers. Why should I beg?"

He held his empty hand with a gesture toward the reporter, who pretended to accept his visionary contents.

The tramp took off his hat and let the breeze sift through his tangled hair.

"What would you think," he said, "if I should tell you that I am 241 years old?"

The reporter, of a couple of centuries, said the reporter, "and it will go all right."

"This ring," said the tramp, "was given me by a Buddhist priest in Benares, India, a hundred years before America was discovered. It is an inexhaustible source of wealth, life and good luck. It has brought me every blessing that man can enjoy. With such fortune as that there is no one on earth that I envy. I am blissfully happy and I lead the only ideal life."

The tramp leaned on the railing and gazed down the bayou for a long time without speaking. The reporter made a movement as if to go and he started violently and faced around. A change had come over him. His brow was lowering and his manner cringing. He shivered and pulled his coat tight about him.

"Wot wuz I sayin'?" he said in a guttural, husky voice. "Wuz I a-talkin' Hello, there, mister, can't you give a feller a dime to get him some supper?"

The reporter, struck by the transformation, gazed at him in silence.

The tramp muttered to himself, and he started violently and faced around. A change had come over him. His brow was lowering and his manner cringing. He shivered and pulled his coat tight about him.

U. S. AID IS SOUGHT IN WILKINS SEARCH

Noted Explorer and Crew Unheard of Since Leaving N. Y. 12 Days Ago.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(AP)—Charles Henry Freeman Jr., 21, said he was a manager for Lady Suzanne Wilkins, said President Roosevelt by telegram tonight for his "co-operation" in a search for Sir Hubert Wilkins, the explorer.

Sir Hubert and his ship, the antarctic exploration vessel Wyatt Earp, have been unheard from since they left New York for Norway 12 days ago. A crew of ten, including a wireless operator, was aboard the motorship. "Lady Wilkins" is completely broken up over worries for the safety of her distinguished husband. Freeman's telegram read: "Lady Wilkins has been reluctant and still is reluctant to ask for co-operation of your Department and the government radio facilities to be on the lookout for the boat."

"As her manager, I have taken it upon myself to ask for co-operation because Lady Wilkins' health is in jeopardy."

Sir Hubert and Lincoln Ellsworth traveled here from the antarctic in April while Lady Wilkins came here from Germany on the Zepplin Hindenburg's maiden voyage to the United States.

Lady Wilkins, a former singing actress, and Sir Hubert were married in 1929 at Cleveland, Ohio. A year ago they adopted a six-year-old girl, Suzanne.

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD. Problem of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I will try to abide by the advice you give me. I am 24 years old, have been married a year. The trouble is I don't love my wife and know I cannot be happy with her. You'll say, "You didn't have to marry her." Let me tell you the story: I was going with two girls and didn't love either one of them. I decided what I should do was nothing. I told one and she took it. I told the other and she cried in my arms. I didn't sleep any that night and in a few weeks I proposed to her. I am counting a pretty decent fellow and have plenty of friends. I wanted to get somewhere in life but this marriage has got me down. Should I tell her what I feel or should I just live with it? She would give me a divorce if I asked it. She would get over it but if I stay married I never will.

Answer: Of course you expected me to tell you that if you knew your wife you should take an out here and now. But I can't—and for several reasons. Had you made a note at the bank and decided that the time you had spent your money on didn't pay you for the inconvenience and the pressure of the note, this wouldn't be a problem. You would be responsible to pay the note, not would the bank regard your discomfort as reasonable excuse for ducking your obligation. Suppose your judgment was bad. You could not and for this you are responsible. The moral obligation to stand by a bad bargain is just as binding as the moral obligation to stand by a good one.

It is not necessarily true that you can't be happy with a good wife. You can't be happy as long as you are planning to escape and you can't be happy so long as you are finding fault with your wife, thinking how much better off you would be if you hadn't let your emotions run away with you. But just as a man settles down contentedly and saves his money to clean up his note at the bank, so you can settle down contentedly to make your marriage a success.

Everything is an attitude. We can take such an attitude toward our jobs that we bore us to tears and make us wish we had chosen any other sort of a job but the one we have. Then we can turn around with a firm intention of making the job go and before we know it the work makes a pleasure and we are a big tick out of it. Perhaps your wife is not exactly the sort of wife you would prefer. She loves you and you will tacitly show her where she disappoints you, she'll all but break her neck to please you. Perhaps you do think wistfully of freedom. Yet if you were free, you would turn right around and get married again and discover that no wife rates 100 per cent perfect. The glamour goes a-glimmering when the girl is free. The new wears are all in the eye of the beholder. No matter how she shines at first, when you get a girl that loves you, looks well and keeps a clean house, sews on your buttons and darns your socks, you save your money and think you are a swell guy, stick to her. You can't do any better if you ditch her and attach another. They are all tarred with the same stick, these girls, and when they love they give their best, however poor it may be.

Finally, the sentimental side of the case: If pity swayed you in the first instance, surely pity would sway you now and keep you from being wistful by telling her that you don't love her and would like to be rid of her. By putting yourself in her place and thinking how you would feel were the situation reversed, you will realize that sentimentality as well as practicality, it is not fair to the wife to stand her up.

Exercise takes secondary place in the stocky girl's figure program. Her basic fuel needs are so low that she could not possibly keep slim on exercise alone. However, physical activity is valuable in that it develops muscle tissue and increases fuel requirements. Moreover, firm muscle tissue is not susceptible to fat invasion. The figure program of the disproportionate overweight girl is entirely different from that of the stocky girl.

STEEL STRIKE FEARS
BREAK STOCK RALLY

Chrysler Hits Six-Year High
But Joins Rest in Final Retreat.

Daily Stock Summary.

Dow-Jones Averages.

WHAT STOCKS DID.

By FRANK MACMILLAN.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(P)—Under the leadership of the volatile Chrysler, stocks got a good start on a rally in today's market but finally met a stumbling block in the heavens of steel.

The day's motor leader responded early to a revival of rumors that the directors of the Chrysler Company will consider a split-up in the stock at their next meeting. There was also talk of a possible increase dividend and a sizeable extra. Highly optimistic estimates were being made of the concern's earnings.

At its best the active automotive issue advanced more than three points at a new six-year peak. It slipped with the rest in the final hour, however, and ended with a net gain of 2 1/4 at 111 1/4.

Selling in the steel was said to have reflected the over-optimistic announcement of the industry that it had decided to put up a battle for the open shop as against the demands of organized labor. Possible strike it was feared, might cancel much of the improvement recorded in this field. Bethlehem Steel was off 2 at 60 3/8.

A contracting influence in the steel group was seen in the figures of the American Iron & Steel Institute placing current production at 74 per cent of capacity, an advance of 3.8 points over last week. The wide percentage increase was due partly to a step-up of activity to overcome the Independence Day holiday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks showed a net increase of 3 at 63 1/2. Transfers dwindled to 770,140 shares compared with 889,760 last Friday.
